That's the reason!

Using cloned numbers of real devices you don't own will always cause trouble since both devices try to register with iMessage and Facetime the same time. Numbers found on the internet are even worse since you will for sure not be the only one who found those numbers...

On Apples Servers it looks like the same machine tries to connect again and again with slightly different values and multiple AppleID's it's no wonder they block this Machine and/or the AppleID's which try to connect...
