Despite all the cool stuff, I have a one problem with my hack, maybe someone can help: system not always waking from sleep. 1 time of 10 waking ends with BIOS rebooting few times, seems that settings are being reset, then restored and everything boots normally.

Yes, you're correct. Everything that I did during installation I wrote down in first post. Ozmosis is the bootloader inside the BIOS, that's why you don't need any other bootloader.

I'm still using 'AtherosL1cEthernet.kext.zip' for the network card. Did not tried new BIOS'es from @griven yet. About GTX970 - you need to google if that card is supported by the system.
