Since the WebDrivers for Sierra are not supported under High Sierra, they definitely have to be updated.

Yes, with the NvidiaGraphicsFixup you can get rid of the AGDPfix.

As always, the OSX/macOS-Update does not change anything within the /EFI/CLOVER-directory, but be aware, that a couple of KextsToPatch-entries in your config.plist might have to be changed, since the older Sierra-entries are not working anymore.

You can find a small collection of newer K2P-entries in the following post:
