

Funktionierender NVRAM nun mit Clover

Hello,

I just took out all calls but calls to the 3 variable handling routines.

I'll check, which routines crash, during the day and will post in the evening.

I used AppleEFIRuntime only since 10.13, so I can't comment on any changes over time. Haven't got any older systems installed to be able to check.

PS.

Why do you think any routine would work ?

I'd expect them to be in the same block of memory, so if you have to proxy one, you would have to proxy them all,

If one worked it would be by coincidence and that might turn on you at some point.
