If you have any specific questions regarding the changes which I made to the source that are not already answered in the first post of this topic, just ask 😊

I don't think that slice will be interested in my quickly implemented approach as it is not future proof and lacks practicability. He can always reach out to me if that's not the case, though. The files provided by me are pretty much nothing more than a proof of concept.

Unfortunately I don't have the time (and will) to look into an implementation of KC-support like acidanthera did.
