Big Sur 11.0.1 beta 1 is out:

The image shows a promotional card for macOS Big Sur 11.0.1 beta. On the left is a small icon of a laptop displaying the macOS logo. To its right is the title "macOS Big Sur 11.0.1 beta" in a large, bold font. Below the title is a paragraph of text explaining that users should run the macOS Developer Beta Access Utility to download the latest beta, and that notifications will be sent when new betas are available. On the right side of the card, there is a blue button labeled "Install Profile" and a link for "Release Notes >". At the bottom left, there are two columns of text: "Released October 28, 2020" and "Build 20B5012d".
