Ok, vielen Dank für die Info. Spricht denn etwas gegen die Verwendung von FakeSMC?

FakeSMC has been around long enough that it covers more sensor monitoring hardware (especial true for old / legacy hardware) although it does so by using non standard key names so it tends to only work well with the included HWMonitor app, where as VirtualSMC emulates real SMC Key names so works with any standard Mac monitoring app such as iStat Menus .. etc.

However with each successive release of VirtualSMC it gets more sensor's added and you can add them yourself if need be (see the VirtualSMC documentation for more info).
