Which operating system do you want to install?

What kind of software do you use on your real Mac that you can then use on your Ryzen?

In general, everything will run better than your original Mac and if you get a 6900xt, you'll get some satisfaction in software like the Adobe suite even compared to your 3090 GPU

Just pay attention to your Ethernet card and wifi/bt you may have to spend some time to get them working perfectly as in windows (for some ethernet is not possible with the latest OSX)

You power unit could be problematic if you put also a 6900xt GPU, although you will never use them together maybe only in windows with DaVinci resolve you could...

but 850 watts is not adequate in my opinion for that much power
