Thanks mhaeuser for your in depth explanation. Since we had enough emotional debate in this thread already I leave it with a big thank you. I only need to clarify again: It is not my personal concern. I'm happy without my wifi kexts anyway. I'm doing Hackintoshes since Tiger and I frankly don't need any history lessons 😊 I still remember very clearly that people around OC advertised the boot loader at some time as being cleaner than Clover and pointed out that there never would be any need to lower security. You can google several quotes back from that era. But please take no offense. I was merely joking.
