I took care of the whole AMD part for a while with a lot of love because I liked both the tool (OCAT) and being able to provide a little help to the AMD community (often unsupported due to old problems between developers)

The owner of the application and github though sometimes modified the AMD parts in a way that I personally didn't think was correct and for that I asked to remove all the dartabases created for AMD CPUs

I think he was misguided on the subject, he had asked me to maintain from the outside that part but I was not interested in doing that

Anybody with any desire to do that can implement that if they want to. Just contact the dev

wu ming Ventura works with your EFI posted in your startinfg message?

Are you updating from Ventura or it is a new installer from scratch?
